TEXAS CAPITAL COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION V.P. RECEIVES HOUSING CRISIS CENTER VOLUNTEER AWARD

DALLAS (July 1, 2008) – Texas Capital Bank, the state’s premier business bank, is pleased to announce that Richard Mauldin, vice president of Texas Capital Community Development Corporation (TCCDC), has received the Vin Vincent Award for Volunteer of the Year from the Housing Crisis Center.

Each year the Housing Crisis Center honors one of its volunteers for his or her valuable service to its clientele. The non-profit provides housing program services specifically designed to “prevent homelessness and to stabilize the elderly, disabled and families with children in decent, affordable, permanent housing and to empower these groups to be able to solve future housing problems.” As part of its curriculum, Mauldin provides financial literacy classes to the people that the Housing Crisis Center serves in an effort to help them better manage their money and solve any future housing issues.

TCCDC is an entity of Texas Capital Bank that gives back to the Texas communities it serves. Its mission is to provide loans and equity investments in projects that create affordable housing or promote economic development and job creation for low- to moderate-income people.
